

Attention maps are visualized with layer-specific color scales to reveal their within-layer spatial distributions; color intensity should therefore not be compared directly across layers. These are additional representative images (not the one used in the main-text Figure 3), shown to confirm the pattern is not specific to a single hand-picked image.